

Appleton Tennis Center

Boise State University
Boise, Idaho

Boise State University developed a nationally recognized tennis team and was in need of a collegiate class tennis facility to accommodate the players and spectators attending the university tennis matches.

The new Appleton Tennis Center includes six individually fenced and lighted tennis courts, permanent seating for 1200 spectators, a tennis team lounge, men's and women's locker rooms, coach's offices, public rest rooms and a concession area. The landscaping and architecture complement the centers location in the heart of the campus.

Dignitaries at the dedication on May 3, 2002 referred to the new tennis center as "World Class", "Wimbledon of the West", "one of the greatest tennis facilities in the country", and more.
