

Frank Brosen Residence

Bedford, New York

This residential indoor tennis court was designed to blend with and become a part of the residence.

The tennis court building was recessed into the ground to produce a low silhouette consistent with the principle residence. The exterior of the building is featured in the same architectural style as the residence building.

This project was done in Association with Indoor Courts of America, with Global providing the tennis court design details.