

Philip Milstein Residence

Scarsdale, New York

This subsurface irrigated red clay tennis court is undersized due to setback restrictions imposed by the local governing authorities.

To compensate for the reduced playing area, Global designed rear court fences and wings to retain tennis balls and the owner maintains the grass on the sides of the court at a longer blade height to “catch” the ball and retain it near the playing area.