

Residential Tennis Court

Scottsdale, Arizona

The indoor tennis court was designed to complement the architecture of this residence in the Arizona desert.

The court was recessed into the ground to lower its profile and to satisfy the local code for maximum building height and is air conditioned for player comfort and features a spectator viewing area adjacent to the court. This project was performed in association with Kitchell, the general contractor.